

We have selected ten of the photos that have been extracted in our route by the Average river, in which Carlos Franco showed us all the vegetable species that they can find in the zone, besides other species brought by the man due to the globalization.

The route was very interesting for several motives.

First for the beauty of the environment, which in autumn can be visualized in its maximum esplendor.

Secondly for the quality of the explanations that we receive of our guide..

